made at the factories of the Corning Glass Works, derives its name from Steuben County, N. Y., in which the little town of Corning is located. American from the very beginning, its brilliance and clarity are a shining tribute to the genius and artistry of American free enterprise.

Fashioned entirely by hand, without dependence on moulds and modern mechanical shortcuts, each piece has an individuality which gives it a charm and character unattainable by machine methods.

For those who prefer decoration on the chaste surface of the glass, crests and monograms, delicately engraved by hand, are available at extra cost.
