THE decision of Acting Secretary Hamlin is of importance in as much as it is a formal announcement by the Federal Government that diamond cutting is not a new American industry. Where the Secretary secured his proofs to arrive at such a conclusion is obvious from a source, which, those that are familiar with the subject have been in ignorance.

Two years ago, it is claimed, there were forty-five expert diamond cutters and polishers in this country, but a bevy of labor agitators claimed that thousands of skilled artisans were employed and that diamond cutting and polishing was not a new industry.

In November last John J. Quinlin, Chief of the Contract Labor Bureau of Brooklyn, informed the Government officials that a large number of diamond cutters and polishers were coming to America, and furthermore, in strict violation of the Contract Labor Law. The controversy of the Alien Contract Labor Law became a subject, and the officials undoubtedly found several hard nuts to crack in considering the many arguments pro and con. Quinlan's protest evidently bore weight, as the officials at once bestirred themselves to appoint a special board of inquiry to investigate and take evidence bearing on the subject. In the meantime padrones were privileged to secure hundreds of unskilled laborers abroad pay their passage to this country and although in direct opposition to the provisions of the law, were unmolested in their traffic.

All the diamond cutters and polishers who arrived last week were comfortably attired and have ample means. They are steady, temperate and of tried honesty. As such they do not suit the labor agitators. These leaders, who are not invariably men of temperance, would throw the gates of the country wide open for unskilled labor, which, is well known we have a glut, and by reason of unreasonable prejudices would prevent skilled artisans from landing. The officials admit that the diamond cutters, when sent back, can return on their own account, and will then be allowed to land. The absurdity of such legislation is evident. A casual observation discloses the fact that the officials at Washington have made serious blunders on other weightier subjects as well as this.

During the sessions of the Fifty-third Congress populistic agitators instilled in the minds of their colleagues that import duties on diamonds should be increased. After long and tedious hearings and against the protests and warning of almost the entire diamond trade, a schedule was passed increasing the import duty on rough diamonds 15 per cent., and on the cut stone 25 per cent. Later, to the consternation of the valuable, wise and aggressive legislators, a defect in the diamond schedule as to punctuation, etc., was disclosed. They claimed the word was intended to be used as a classifying word, introducing certain diamonds free of duty. The faulty phrase is "diamonds, miners, glaziers and engravers, diamonds and diamond dust and bort." The board of appraisers fully verified the fact that diamonds must be admitted free. The government appealed the case, however, and it will be several years before the matter will be satisfactorily adjusted.

The framers of the schedule made the claim that in increasing the duty, the revenue would be augmented ten fold. This has been proven a fallacy. Since the bill became a law the importation of diamonds and precious stones has decreased.

STILL AT LARGE.

J. C. Coleman, the Clever Swindler Still Eludes the Authorities. Other Cities Have Been Victimized.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 23.

J. C. Coleman and his pal who so cleverly victimized Delkin & Co. of this city, has also several other prominent jewelers in the State hot on his trail. It has just been learned that he has operated successfully in Atlanta, Macon, Savannah and Charleston. William Schweigert & Co. of Augusta, is a victim. He secured $583 worth of diamond rings and lockets. The firm received an order from the swindler in the name of J. C. Coleman of Swainsboro, for a diamond ring and locket, Schweigert, after finding out J. C. Coleman was wealthy and worth more than $100,000, or catch his trade, instead of sending one ring and one locket, shipped by express a sample package of three diamond rings and three diamond lockets for the customer to select from, which the rascal got.

J. H. & N. W. Williams of Macon, expressed $185 worth of diamonds to the swindler at Midville, and Jeweler Bruhl who shipped $700 worth of diamonds has just learned of the huge steal.

Delkin & Co., telegraphed the New York Jewelers' Board of Trade last week to the effect that the reported amount is greatly exaggerated and that the express company is liable for the loss incurred.

The express company, however, denies that it is responsible for the loss of the goods, claiming that Coleman, however false the means, might have been identified in a satisfactory manner,

DIAMOND CUTTERS RELEASED.

SIXTY-TWO LESS FORTUNATE DETAINED AND MAY BE DEPORTED.

Secretary Hamilton's Decision. Men Said to be Under Contract and Must Return to Europe.

The special board of inquiry presided over by Commissioner Senner, convened for the purpose of making a searching investigation of an alleged violation of the Contract Labor law, passed on sixty-five diamond cutters Friday, who arrived during the week on the steamship Majestic, but detained sixty-two who were adjudged to come within the meaning of the law as contract laborers. The detained men were sent back to Ellis Island and unless an appeal in their case is made, will be returned on the next White Star Line steamer sailing out of this port.

The thirteen diamond cutters from the Westernland were debarred from landing on the affidavit of one of the number, F. Boesch, who innocently admitted that his party were engaged by the diamond cutting firm of Coeterman & Heinrich, in Cincinnati.

Commissioner Senner on commenting on the above stated the firm under the law were liable to a fine of $1,000 in the case of each cutter or $13,000 for the party.

As previously reported in the REVIEW a protest was made by Edward C. Brennan, president of the Immigration Restriction League of Brooklyn in December last against the importation of these diamond cutters. The complaint was taken to the Department of Immigration and a special Board of Inquiry instituted proceedings. Several diamond cutters were arrested and their cases made test ones. Lawyers Ruebensamen and Cochran represented the Government and Attorney Greenbaum of the firm of Hayes & Greenbaum appeared for the diamond cutters.

It was urged by the lawyers for the diamond cutters that the diamond workers came to "create a new industry, and therefore, under a provision of the Contract Labor law, were entitled to work here."

Several hearings were held and the Board of Inquiry later filed their report with Secretary Carlisle. Other hearings took place in Washington and the matter rested pending a decision.

country under contract to engage in a "new industry in the United States." The question at issue was, whether "diamond cutting" should be considered a "new industry" within the meaning of the law, and consequently whether alien diamond cutters were exempt from the prohibition against the importation of alien laborers brought here under contract.

The matter, however, was set at rest a few days ago by the decision rendered by Acting Secretary Hamlin in which he holds that diamond cutting is not a new industry within the meaning of the act of 1885 and that therefore the several diamond cutters who were brought to this country under contract to engage in diamond cutting must be deported.

Assignee Brown's Report.

All creditors interested in the affairs of John B. Yates, formerly of 21 and 23 Maiden Lane, whose assignment March 21, 1894, to J. B. Brown was commented upon in the REVIEW a week ago, will be pleased to learn that the assignee has at last filed an accounting. The merchandise sold at auction brought $4,067.74; stock sold at retail, $2,552.82; which, with a bank balance of $924.18 and accounts sold and collected bring the assets to $9,822.17.

The expense of settling up the estate, including salary due employees and lawyers' fees, aggregate $1,774.02.

A revised schedule places the liabilities at $59,000 and assets as above quoted, $9,822.17. The preferences are. Fourth National Bank on notes of $2,000; George W. Yates, Sr., of Sara-

A CLEVER CROOK.

Jewelry and Silverware, Supposed to Have Been Stolen Found in His Possession.

BOSTON, Mass., March 19.

Information reached the Police Department a few days ago that a man known as Charles Wheeler, who formerly lived in a room near Dover street, but who recently moved to Roxbury, was responsible for some, if not all, of the many burglaries which have been committed in the vicinity during the past few months.

It was alleged that Wheeler has been disposing of large amounts of silverware and jewelry, also melted gold and silver to dealers in old metal in the city.

Special Officers Gaddis and Lynch of Headquarters set to work to investigate the matter and to locate Wheeler. Through the assistance of Sergt. Pendigast, they succeeded in locating Wheeler in a room in the house No. 87 Reed street, Roxbury, and he was arrested and locked up at Police Headquarters. In an interview with Chief Inspector Watts, Wheeler stated that he was born in Rock Island, Mo., and for a time lived in Rochester, N. Y., coming to Boston a short time ago. Beyond this he would say little, except to deny his guilt.

In his possession was found a large amount of valuable silverware and jewelry of varied description.

At Wheeler's room a large bag and chisel were found, also some Yale locks and skeleton keys and other burglar tools.

A good part of the property that had been stolen has been recovered, but there is yet some in various pawn shops, and this the police are in hopes of securing.

Among the articles recovered are silver bowls, silver creamers, urns and spoons, a knit gold wire bracelet with clasp set with three pearls, a watch charm set with moonstone and agate, a black braid fob charm, contained with many other articles in a square brown box, with clasp, a small hairpin box, a gold pin set with a brilliant in the centre; a diamond pin, composed of round and square blocks of gold; a gold locket, a fob charm,

WORK FOR DIAMOND CUTTERS.

New Factory Equipped in Brooklyn by Kryn & Co. and Wouteor Bros. of Antwerp.

A diamond cutting factory has been equipped in Brooklyn by Kryn & Co. and Wouteor Bros. of Antwerp, which promises to employ 300 men ultimately. expect to set 150 men to work this week if they can be secured. The factory is at Third avenue and Seventh street, and has been completely fitted up with benches and wheels.

The representatives of the firms are finding some difficulty in securing workmen and fear that cutters who are following them will not be allowed to land. They have no contract with the men, who, however, expect to get $1.80 per karat for cutting instead of 80 cents, the price in Antwerp.

TO THE BROOKLYN UNION LEAGUE.

A Testimonial From the Twenty-second Regiment Which Commemorate the Brooklyn Trolley Strike.

That the hospitalities extended by the citizens of Brooklyn to the militia of the metropolis during the recent lamentable "trolley strike" touched a tender cord in many a brave heart, and formed a bond of enduring friendship between thousands of new acquaintances, has just been illustrated by a graceful acknowledgment from the officers of the Twenty-second Regiment, N. G. N. Y., to the Union League Club of Brooklyn. The following letter, which was accompanied by a Russian bronze, one of the gems from Tiffany & Co.'s art rooms, tells its own story.

"THE TWENTY-SECOND REGIMENT

accept the accompanying testimonial in bronze in remembrance of the many courtesies received at your hands during the trolley strike in your city last January.

Military duty always involves deprivation of the ordinary comforts and conveniences of life, and the campaign in Brooklyn was no exception to the rule. But whatever hardships we endured were greatly mitigated by the kind and courteous attentions we received from you; and, assuring you that they will ever be held in grateful remembrance by the Twenty-second Regiment, we remain, very truly yours,

JOSEPH JARDINE,

Captain and Secretary Board of Officers.

During the strike the Brooklyn Union League extended the freedom of their club house to the officers of the Twenty-second Regiment, and they were not only accorded the same privileges as visiting members, but the many little personal attentions and courtesies shown have endeared the club to the regiment and will never be forgotten.

Immediately upon the regiment's return to the city, the board of officers held a meeting, and appointed Adjutant H. Hayden Treadwell as a committee of one to select an appropriate gift as an expression, however inadequate, of their sincere appreciation of the Club's hospitality and friendship.

The bronze selected at Tiffany's by Adjutant Treadwell is a Russian bear, modelled by the noted Professor Liebrich of the Russian Academy of Arts at St. Petersburg. The Liebrich bear is as famous as the Barye Lion—each represents the highest art in modelling. A magnificent and massive block of Labrador spar, in its rugged state, as it was quarried near Kieff, forms a base for the bronze, and upon the front of the stone is a plate bearing the following inscription:

PRESENTED TO THE UNION LEAGUE
CLUB OF BROOKLYN.

BY THE TWENTY-SECOND REGIMENT, N. G. N. Y.

Strike of Jan.,

The bear is posed in the way familiar to us all, resting upon his haunches and wearing the happy expression of one who is on thoroughly good terms with himself and the world in general. A few years ago the Russian Minister selected a similar bronze from Tiffany's as an example of Russian art work, and presented it to the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C.

The bronze was delivered to the club Saturday evening last.

Corinne's Costly Watch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 20.

The hearing in the case of the United States Government against the actress, Corinne, which was to have been held before the master in this city, Attorney H. L. Christy yesterday, has once more been postponed, and this time indefinitely. As previously reported in the REVIEW, the treasury department at Chicago got a watch in the custom house, which was consigned to Corinne. The article was consigned to her from Ellis & Co., jewelers in Toronto. The government officials, however, were a little suspicious about it, as they had caught that firm smuggling once before. Accordingly, the watch was confiscated. Corinne immediately procured a rule from the United States court to show cause why the watch should not be delivered to her. H. L. Christy received a letter from Chicago to the effect that the officials there were after Ellis & Co., and did not want to harass Corinne at all.

The watch is said to be one of the handsomest in existence, and is worth $1,450. It was made for a grand nephew of the late Premier of Canada, Sir George McDonald. Mrs. Kimball, Corinne's mother, said this morning that there was scarcely enough gold in the case to hold the jewels with which it is studded together.

Brooches set with seed pearls and having a large tinted pearl or fancy colored diamond set in the centre, are at the height of their popularity.

A dazzling lace pin is woven strands of gold upon which is mounted a large pearl and surrounded with diamonds on the outer edge.

Among novel scarf pins is a snake coiled around the upper section of the pin with a medium sized opal held in its fangs. Its eyes are of glittering rubies.

The very latest addition to my lady's tea table is a dainty call bell of china to match the set. The handle of the bell is prettily decorated with silver deposit.

* * *

A late introduction in gents watch fob chain charms are plain slabs of gold with a tracing of platina and a monogram of small diamonds, rubies and sapphires in the centre.

Among artistic novelties for Eastertide, a line of souvenir spoons are shown. A unique fluted bowl, gold lined, around the handle of which is entwined the stems of a calla lily and the flower surmounting the shank is notable.

Aside from the conventional marquise design in ladies finger rings those with the shanks incrustured with diamonds and the setting resembling lace work are extremely popular.

Diamonds are not used extensively as a setting for penknives, cigar cutters, cigarette holders and the like. They are somewhat expensive, but in keeping with fastidious tastes.

An excellent jewel casket is an egg of satin finish silver mounted on a pedestal formed of two wish bones. The receptacle is lined with white satin and a beautiful heading of blue silk.

Buckles of silver filigree work or embossed silver gilt, to grace feminine sailor hats for summer wear are now in demand. Belts of silk web with buckles to match are also furnished.

Some new and delightful flower holders of cut glass have been shown recently. One is that of a swan, the feet and head being of silver gilt. On each side of the head rises a small tulip-shaped vase designed for the arrangement of single flowers.

TRAPPED A DIAMOND THIEF.

An Important Capture by Sheriff Anderson of Ocala, Fla.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 19.

Sheriff Anderson has just made an important capture, being the negro who stole about $3,000 worth of jewelry from M. Weissman of Tampa. Two hundred dollars reward was offered for the property, most of which has been recovered. The negro was arrested and sentenced a short time ago on a petty charge. While serving his time a pair of cuff buttons, made from two English sovereigns, were stolen from him by a fellow prisoner. He foolishly made complaint to the sheriff, who recovered the property from the second thief. The sheriff who believed the buttons had been stolen by the first negro, proceeded to hunt for the owner, who had just appeared on the scene. The thief, whose name the sheriff refuses to give, disposed of much of the property at about 1 per cent. of its real value. A negro woman, who keeps a cheap restaurant on Church street, had a diamond pin which cost $350 in Paris, for which she gave the thief three meals.

JEWELER ARRESTED.

An Old Bill and Interest Secured by an Attleboro Firm.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. March 19.

Isaac Steinau of New York, a jeweler, was arrested Wednesday at the instance of Watson, Newell & Co., manufacturing jewelers of Attleboro. In May, 1883, this firm obtained judgment in the Superior Court of New York city against Steinau Bros. & Co. for $2,506.89. The Attleboro people were unable to collect the amount, however, and the whole matter was dropped.

A few days ago Watson, Newell & Co. instructed their attorney, Harry C. Curtis, to arrest Isaac Steinau should he ever come to this city on business. Mr. Curtis learned Wednesday that Steinau was at the Narragansett Hotel, and Deputy Sheriff Barrows was given the necessary papers. Wednesday afternoon Barrows made the arrest at Henry Ludwig & Co's jewelry establishment, corner of Blackstone and Gay streets. Steinau represents this concern at 529 Broadway, N. Y.

The amount claimed by Watson, Newell & Co., is $4,500, $2,506.89 of which is the original debt, and the remainder is the interest for 12 years, lacking two months.

Phillips was paroled in the custody of his counsel. This has been Mr. Phillips' misfortune. He has secured diamonds and other goods time and time again from jewelers on memorandum, and when arraigned to give some satisfactory answer why he had not settled the bill or returned the goods made answer that he was continually being "persecuted."

The Jewelers League of New York Pays $10 000 to the Beneficiaries of Deceased Members.

On Dec. 16, 1894, Charles Hein, late with Hale & Mulford, died. On Dec. 25, 1894, Wm. T. Gale with Tiffany & Co., died. These two deaths were ordered to be assessed for on Feb. 1, 1895. The amount to be paid to the beneficiaries of these two gentleman is $5,000 each. It was collected from members widely scattered and on March 16 checks were made for the amounts stated above, it having been collected inside of forty days and is now in the hands of the beneficiaries. Has any institution a more loyal set of members or more prompt? Who can beat the record? If you do not belong to the League, why do you not join at once?

PLACE, PETERSON & CO. ROBBERY RECALLED.

Men Arrested in Brooklyn Believed To Be Implicated.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 21.

In the capture of Frank Sutton and Charles Johnson in Brooklyn Saturday last. Supt. W. I. McKelvey and his officers have undoubtedly run down at least one of the daring cracksmen who blew open several safes in this city recently and carried off property amounting to more than $12,000.

Their description tally with the ones who so successfully robbed Place, Peterson & Co. and Wildpret & Saacke.

The two safe breakers who did the job at Place, Peterson & Co.'s were seen in the building by Capt. Fitzgerald and the captain was to-day shown the photographs of the two prisoners. He studied them carefully and said that the picture of Frank Sutton, even to the mustache and hat, and the way he wore it, strangely resembled the burglar with the light mustache, whom he saw leaving the building, and the man he said was built like Sutton.

He was not positive of Johnson and said that he would like to see the prisoner. He could tell in an instant positively whether or not the prisoners are the men who committed the Place, Peterson & Co. burglary.

All the safes broken in Brooklyn and in Connecticut by Sutton and Johnson were worked upon exactly as were the safes in the jewelry shops in this city and the two crooks are known to have been at the fall meeting at Narragansett park and Sutton is believed to be one of the gang of burglars who shot a policeman in Bridgeport, Conn.

When the crooks were captured they were evidently about to start on a "business" tour and both had their pockets packed with burglars' tools. Each had a five-shooting, self-acting revolver, braces, bits, loaded hammers, delicate saws, adjustable saw frame, which must have been turned out by a mechanical artist, and a curious looking triangular tool, with steel bolts at each point, which is used in tearing off the knobs from safes.

They also had each a package of small steel wedges, used in tearing open safes, a mechanical device for inserting powder into safes and other articles. The prisoners are regarded unexcelled, as well as the most dangerous skillful cracksmen in the country.

A WATCH WITH A SAD HISTORY.

A Rusted Silver Timepiece Found in the Bed of the Russian River.

A relic of the sad railroad accident which happened near Cazadero over a year ago has been found by John H. Davis of the Fish Commission. It is a battered silver watch, the hunting case of which is considerably dented and the hands are broken off. On Jan. 15, 1894, Arthur C. Briggs, William Brown, Frank R. Hart, Thomas Gould, William T. Bremer, John Rice, W. C. Collister and Joseph Sabine started on an engine from Cazadero to go to Duncans Mills. A storm was raging and the rivers were flooded at the time. As the engine was crossing a bridge on Austin Creek the trestle work gave way and the engine fell into the creek. All of the eight men were drowned except William Brown, who had walked on ahead as a lookout. The bodies of all the drowned men were not recovered for several days.

Peculiarly enough, the four drivers of the engine have never been found, though the engine was shortly afterward raised and is now running on the North Pacific Coast Railroad. Though the heavy driving wheels were never found, the silver watch of one of the unfortunates was picked up after having been in the water over thirteen months.

A few days ago John H. Davis was patrolling Russian river in the interests of the Fish Commission. While crossing a riffle about 200 yards south of the point where Austin Creek empties into Russian river, Davis noticed a very brightly shining object on a gravel spit and in about five inches of water. He picked it up and found it was a watch. The place was about two miles from where the accident occurred. This showed that the floods of two winters had not carried the watch very far.

The works of the timepiece were badly rusted, and there was nothing about it to show the ownership except the usual numbers and names. The watch was made by the American Watch Company. It is a large silver timepiece with a hunting case, the number of which is 7596. The works are of Waltham movement. The number on the works is 516,023, and the name F. S. Bartlett is engraved in the usual place opposite the number.

Mr. Davis tried to get some clew as to who the watch belonged to, but it could not be identified at Cazadero or at Duncan's Mills. The almost broken case showed that the unfortunate owner must have been struck by some piece of iron when the engine crashed through the trestlework. Just enough remains of the hands to show that they were pointing to 6.45 or thereabouts.

Pawnbrokers' Bill Defeated.

By a mere accident, Mr. Franklin Bien of 320 Broadway, counsel for the diamond merchants, ascertained that bill No. 1,131 had been introduced in the Assembly, by Mr. Blake, on the 27th day of February, 1855, which read as follows:

Section 1. "The title or ownership of personal property is not affected in any way in the hands of a pledgee or innocent purchaser in good faith for value, by reason of the fact that the pledgor or seller is himself indebted to his vendor for such property, provided the said pledgor or seller come into lawful possession of the same by what is known as memorandum sale or otherwise."

Section 2. "This act shall take effect immediately."

The effect of the passage of this bill would be claimed by the pawnbrokers to legalize all advances made by them on memorandum goods, and thus destroy validity of the effect of the various decision of the Court of Appeals, in the well-known case of Smith vs. Clews, which virtually held that the conversion or disposition of memorandum goods was grand larceny, the same as stolen property, and that no title could pass to the parties holding it, and in such cases the pawnbrokers have been compelled to restore the property.

As soon as this was communicated to the merchants, they immediately retained Mr. Bien to appear before the Assembly Judiciary Committee on the afternoon of March 20, to oppose the passage of the bill.

The parties represented by Mr. Bien were Messrs. L. Tannenbaum & Co., Randel, Baremore & Billings, S. F. Myers & Co., Stern Bros. & Co., J. W. Block & Bro., H. & E. O. Belais, Herzog, Goldsmith & Frank Heller, Ettinger & Fink, C. Cottier & Son, Charles F. Wood & Co., Eisenmann Bros. Bruhl Bros. Co., Arnstein Bros. & Co., M. Prager, L. & M. Kahn & Co., and Alfred H. Smith & Co.

Mr. Bien in his argument before the committee, stated that the title of the bill was a misnomer, that in case the bill should become a law, it should be entitled "An act to legalize grand larceny for the benefit and protection of pawnbrokers" making advances thereon. He also presented the argument that the act was unconstitutional, and that if the legislature had the right, (after the Court of Appeals had decided this question of memorandum goods, and it was the only protection to merchants of diamonds and diamond jewelry had) to pass a law of this kind, they had the same authority to pass an act that advances made on stolen property should be valid (so as to protect pawnbrokers,) and the property could not be recovered without a return of the advances.

At the conclusion of the argument, the entire Judiciary Committee of the Assembly stated in open session that the bill was an improper one and would be adversely reported; in other words, this means, that the bill will not become a law.

THE PASSING OF FRANK DUANE FISK.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 20.

Frank Duane Fisk, one of the best known men of this city died at his late residence, No. 14 Main street, yesterday afternoon.

His illness dated from Sunday afternoon at about 4 o'clock, when he was attacked with vertigo and fell down a flight of stairs. The shock produced by the fall is given as the direct cause of death.

Deceased was born in Pawtucket, and was a son of the late Stephen P. Fisk. For many years he was connected with the firm of J. E. Caldwell & Co., silversmiths, of Philadelphia, and later he was of the firm of Fisk & Co., druggists of Pawtucket. Of late years, however, he had not been engaged in active business pursuits.

BOSTON, Mass., March 22.

Col. Andrew J. West of Atlanta, Ga., the celebrated forger and bunco steerer, is again in custody after a long and checkered career. He was one of the six arrested in New York city, Nov. 28, 1864, for being concerned in a plot to burn the hotels of that city. Captain Kennedy, his companion and one of the conspirators, was hung in Fort Lafayette, and another on Bedloe's Island in New York harbor.

Among the score of New York houses victimized at that time by West, was the Meridan Britannia on Fourteenth street. Here he ordered $965 worth of goods, drew a check for $150 more and walked off with the difference.

WEST SIDE STORE DENUDED BY FOUR BOLD THIEVES.

They First Steal a Horse and Wagon and Coolly Take a Full Load of Clothing and Jewelry.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 21.

Four young men executed a series of burglaries and robberies in the vicinity of Twenty-second street and Sacramento avenue, and finished up at 5 p. m. Tuesday with a stolen horse hitched to a wagon loaded down with plunder. The plunder consisted of clothing and jewelry taken from the store of Albert Silha at No. 1496 West Twenty-second street. It was valued at $2,500.

The deliberate coolness with which the job was carried is its remarkable feature. The robbers first went to the stable of Albert Schymensky, a coal dealer and took a horse from the stable and then went to No. 1018 Whipple street, where they found a wagon. With the horse and wagon they proceeded to No. 1496 West Twenty second street.

When Mr. Silha arrived at his store there was hardly anything left in it. All of the jewelry in the cases that was of any account was gone. The cheaper stuff was not touched. The affair was reported to the police and they found the horse and wagon standing at La Salle and Water streets.

Mr. Silha has a theory that may lead to the apprehension of the burglars, but the police have as yet been unable to trace the thieves.

The firm of Eakins & Son 930 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa., are selling off their stock preparatory to moving to Southern California.

PROVIDENCE NEWS.

Numbered among the local firms pinched by M. J. Franklin & Company's failure in San Francisco, Cal., are: S. & B. Lederer, $3,445; Ostby & Barton, $892, and the Phoenix Chain Company, $1,589. It is also stated that D. F. Briggs & Co., of Attleboro, had given credit to the extent of $2,215.

It is learned from reliable sources that the Kent-Stanley Company of Providence, R. I., ave, through the stockholder's committee, matured a plan for the reorganization of the company, which is meeting with substantial support, and gives promise of a satisfactory adjustment of the company's affairs within a reasonable short period of time. The whole business community would be gratified to see the enterprising firm again carrying on its large business and recovering from the troubles incident to the hard times, which have been so severely felt by every industry in Rhode Island.

In regard to the withdrawal of the attachment of Josiah Ingolls against the Kent-Stanley Company, Mr. Charles Wilson, attorney for the Kent-Stanley Company, made the following statement:

"The attachment of Josiah Ingalls against the Kent-Stanley Company has been discharged by the plaintiff. This discharge in no way affects the Princess Imad Nawaz Jung's Jewels.

Prince Imad Nawaz Jung, the Nawab of Bahadur, with his Princess, potentates of Bahadur, accompanied by the Countess Kullman of Austria, who are making a tour of the world were guests at the Waldorf last week.

The Princess, who is an Arabian by birth, has a very light and clear complexion and always wears the costume of her adopted home. Her loose flowing gowns are of soft, colored silks, and across her forehead is a silken band holding in place a veil that falls down her back to below her waist. Her costumes, however, did not attract so much attention as did her jewels. Although not of a type worn by the women of the Western hemisphere, they compare favorably with many of the masterpieces which are prized by the wealthy society women of New York. Her fingers are loaded with precious stones and she wears at least six bracelets of antique design on her pretty wrists. A long golden chain with a jeweled pendant hangs round her neck, and many of her evening gowns have the hems and sleeves embroidered with precious stones. On state occasions she wears a wonderful coronet of diamonds and rubies and a girdle that is one blaze of light.

The Princess is no exception to the women of the new world, as far as to the choice of articles of adornment. In several instances she has purchased while en route diamond jewelry that would net a fabulous sum. It is more than likely she will see some of our tasteful and fashionable American wrought jeweled pieces, and as usual purchase something as a memento of her visit to the metropolis.

A Lucky Find.

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 23.

Edward Matthews, salesman at S. K. Eaton's jewelry store, is the happy possessor of an immensely large pearl, which he found in a native oyster a day or two ago. It appears Mr. Matthews who is very fond of oysters, ordered a quantity sent to his home. While opening some oysters for dinner he accidentally found the pearl which in color is of a pretty purplish blue. Mr. Matthews will have the pearl which he values highly set in a scarf pin.

Loss by Fire.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 21.

George F. Pray's jewelry store was damaged by fire yesterday to the extent of $5,000. Chauncey J. Preston, a clerk in the store, was probably fatally burned in fighting the fire.

The fire was caused by Mr. Pray knocking over an oil stove, while putting on his coat to go to dinner. The oil ignited and spreading rapidly among the show cases filled with watches and jewelry. In the meantime Mr. Preston was doing his best to save the stock of valuable watches. Mr. Pray shouted to him to come out for the safety of himself.

As Mr. Preston did not leave the store, being unable to, as unaware of his danger, Mr. Pray kicked in the big glass of a side window and pulled him out, black with smoke, and with skin hanging in shreds from his neck and arm. It was feared that he was dead, but consciousness soon returned.

City Physician Jenks was of the opinion that he would recover, the burns being confined to his face, neck and hands. He had a very narrow escape from being roasted alive, but for Mr. Pray's brave act.

The building was entirely destroyed, and Mr. Pray could not give any estimate of his loss, but said his tools and pictures were insured, not the cost.

A judgment has been filed against Charles S. Hackey, Caraquet, N. B., $132.

W. F. BAGLEY PARDONED.Efforts of His Faithful Young Wife Successful.

CHICAGO, Mar. 21.

Love found a way to open the iron doors of the county jail. W. F. Bagley, who was serving a term of one year for larceny, was set at liberty. Bagley is a jeweler and kept a repair shop at Hyde Park. A number of valuable watches were left with him for attention, and he took them, abandoned his shop and fled the city. He was arrested in Cincinnati, brought back to Chicago, tried, found guilty and sentenced to a year in jail, and began his punishment in January last.

Before his offense he was engaged to be married to an estimable young lady, but when he became a convict he offered to release her from her promise; she, however, would not accept such freedom, but, instead, insisted on becoming his wife and they were married in the jail on January 25.

The bridegroom went back to his cell and the bride to the work of liberating her husband. She visited Gov. Altgeld and pleaded so persuasively that he yielded to her entreaties and official declaration of executive clemency on reaching the jail, Bagley was released. His wife was waiting at the jail door for him and the bright sun shone on no happier couple than they. Bagley said he intended to begin life anew.

The Affairs of G. Heitkemper Being Adjusted.

Emmons, Smith & Emmons of Portland, Ore., attorneys for the New York Jewelers' Board of Trade, have secured an order from the court, in that city, directing trustee Lutke in charge of G. Heitkemper's affairs to deposit all receipts and proceeds from sale, including collections of book accounts, subject to the decision of the court at the termination of the trial.

The attorneys made application for the appointment of a receiver, but the above order was granted instead. The attorneys also filed an attachment in the interest of numerous creditors represented by the Board.

As reported in a recent issue of the REVIEW the following creditors are secured by two mortgages, viz.: First mortgage, Hayden W. Wheeler & Co., $9,681.87; Mrs. V. Heitkemper, $5,250; Commercial National Bank of Portland, $5,043.45; F. A. Heitkemper, $4,080.45; F. J. Victor, $1,930.25; and M. L. Pipes, $500.

In second mortgage are: Gergenheim & Co., $2,496.23; Phelps & Miller, $2,350.56; Bippart & Co., $1,320.31; Wilcox Silverplate Co., $973.29; Union Central Insurance Co., $800, and Whiting Manufacturing Co., $495.83.

The creditors protected in the first mortgage made arrangement to the effect that those interested in the second mortgage were to share pro rata or equal priority.

It is reported that Mr. Heitkemper owes the trade in the aggregate $45,000.

Charles Gilomeister, Seattle, Wash., has given a chattel mortgage on stock for $1,000.

MANCHURIAN HEAD ORNAMENTS.

Curious Jewels Secured by Frederick Villiers in Kinchu, China.

A most curious collection of jewelry is now on exhibition in one of Tiffany's window. It belongs to Frederick Villiers, the famous war correspondent who was in China and Japan with James Creelman, The World's correspondent, during the bloodiest scenes of the war now drawing to a close. A letter from Mr. Villiers states how he came into possession of the jewelry, which is as artistic as odd. Mr. Villiers writes:

"This collection of old Manchu gold, silver gilt, silvered and enameled jewelry was found by me in the captured city of Kinchow, on the Liantung Peninsula, Manchuria.

"The Chinese troops retreating through the old city looted many of the stores, one of which was a pawnbroker's shop.

"On the entry of the Japanese troops the Japanese General placed a guard over the store, and Mr. Creelman and I were billeted in the compound. When the Chinese proprietor returned he was so pleased at finding the bulk of his goods intact that he allowed me to take my choice of these articles, of whose rightful owners all trace had been lost."

The articles of jewelry, although they would not please an American belle, are most cunningly fashioned. The colors of the enamels are brilliant, and the filigree work is delicate and artistic.

One piece represents, to the life, a grasshopper perched on a bunch of field flowers. Another is a pin that has decked the glossy coils of some Manchurian woman's hair. This pin is adorned with the feathers of the king-bird. There are other ornaments for the hair with which the almoned-eyed owners must have parted most unwillingly to their "Uncle" with the pigtail. One of these is a silver butterfly which, caught by a little spring, trembles and moves at the slightest touch. The butterfly's wings are painted in enamel true to nature. Another head dress is an elaborate affair which, presumably, was worn by a married woman who had caught her fish.

There is in the collection, too, what might have been used as a watch chain. It has four pendants one of them a fish, cunningly jointed and flexible, a beautiful example of the silversmith's art.

There is a Manchurian locket of silver, massive and heavy. The ornamentation on it, although done with rude tools, is very handsome. A pair of earrings and a bracelet complete the collection which attracts much attention.
